DEAR COUPLE.

Your wedding is not just a day. It is a feeling between two people that has been building for years. Our work doesn't begin with the camera. It begins with you.

HOW WE THINK

Most couples think in hours first. Three hours. Eight hours. A full day. We think differently. We think in moments — in closeness, and in what happens between the moments. The question that matters isn't how many hours. It's: which parts of your story should we tell?

WHAT WE CAPTURE

Every wedding holds different layers. Here are the ones we look for.

Moments that simply happen

A look. An unexpected laugh. These don't need direction — they just need someone present enough to catch them.

Moments that need space

Some things don't happen between programme points. Private vows. A quiet moment just for the two of you, without an audience.

Moments that show who you are

Your wedding isn't just the two of you. It's the people around you — a welcome evening, a shared dinner, a play, a morning after.

Moments that need perspective

Some things happen simultaneously. While you look at each other, your families react. More perspectives mean nothing gets lost.

Moments that reflect

Sometimes it's words that carry everything. A thought before the ceremony. A quiet reflection after. These layers give your story depth.

Moments that anchor the place

Every location has its own energy — light, architecture, landscape. We take time to make that visible, so your story is rooted somewhere real.

HOW MUCH WE CAN TELL

The more time, perspective and space we have together, the more of these layers become part of your film. Here is how that works in practice.

DIMENSION ONE — TIME

How deep do we go?

3–4 hours

One chapter of your day, told honestly. A ceremony. A quiet moment after. Focused — and complete.

6–10 hours

The day finds its rhythm. Getting ready. Anticipation. Letting go. We see you not just in one moment, but in movement through the day.

2–3 days

We leave the wedding day itself. We create space — maybe a day just for the two of you, without a schedule or an audience. This is where the moments that truly carry your story are made.

DIMENSION TWO — PERSPECTIVE

How is it told?

One person

Intimate. Close. Observational. We are part of the moment without changing it.

Two people

While one follows you, the other reads the room — reactions, glances, details. The story becomes more complete.

Multiple perspectives

Large spaces. Many people. Emotions happen in parallel. We can catch them all — without compromise.

DIMENSION THREE — INTIMACY

What do you trust us with?

Documentary

We observe. We don't intervene.

Gently guided

Small prompts. Situations that give you room to show yourselves.

Story-driven

We consciously create moments — not staged, but enabled. So that what's usually hidden becomes visible.

THE BIGGER PICTURE

The more time, perspectives and room we share, the closer we get to what really makes you you. It's not about filming more. It's about understanding you better.

A HONEST NOTE

Many couples choose less at first — and realise later how much more there was to tell. We're not here to push you toward anything. We're here to help you figure out what's right for you. Some couples want to hold onto a moment. Others want their whole story told. Both are right.
